

The magazine is a simple rectangular box consisting of 4 side walls and a bottom wall. The top is open to allow loading of bullets, and the front wall should have an open space where the bullet fires out of. You will probably need to leave an identical space in the back wall. When you cut the walls, make sure they are large enough to accomodate a bullet and leave space for glueing adjacent walls.